MITCHELL MARRIAGE MISERY

Eleanor Mitchell, Flynn Matthews alleged girlfriend and drug dealer, has been linked to yet another sex scandal.

In her second year studying English at Bristol University she is embroiled in the breakdown of her University English Professor's marriage.

David Quinn has worked at the University for seven years and is a well respected tutor admired by his colleagues. He married Annabelle, a solicitor, four years ago and she tells us their marriage was a happy one until last year.

She equates this to the arrival of one Eleanor Mitchell to the university.

"David began working late more. At first his excuses were reasonable. He'd just been made Professor and that meant he had more responsibilities. It was hard, especially with our daughter being so young but I understood. His career was important."

It was the frequent weekends away that were to raise alarm bells for her. "The odd one is to be expected, occasionally they'll be a conference relevant to what he's teaching but by June this year he'd been to five. I knew something wasn't right so I confronted him."

Professor Quinn, pictured yesterday holding 3-year-old daughter Emma's hand, denied any wrong doing but wife Annabelle wasn't to be deterred.

"I think a wife knows when her man's cheating. And of course the frequent late nights stopped during the summer months as that girl had gone home for the holidays."

They were to have an idyllic summer together as a family with trips to Cornwall and a week away in the south of France. However, in late August David announced that he was meeting up with colleagues for pre new academic year drinks and he'd be staying overnight at a fellow Professor's house.

"I knew immediately it was a lie as I'd bumped into that work colleague in town and he was going away on holiday. I confronted David and he confessed. Of course he didn't tell me her name."

Although Annabelle felt betrayed she was prepared to work on their marriage for the sake of their daughter and because she loved her husband.

Seeing photos of her husband and Eleanor yesterday has devastated Annabelle.

"He assured me it was over and there he is sitting in a car with that slut for the world to see. It's been going on for about ten months. Until she came along we had a happy marriage. He can't love me or Emma at all. I'm done with him."

Annabelle Quinn was in conversation with our intrepid reporter Nina Dellio.
